MASTERPIECE OF COMEDY FITTING

Sothern plays Petruchio, flerce, gous, domineering, who takes upon imself the task of subduing his beauhimself the task of subduing his beautiful bride, who has a frightful temper.
It is one of his best parts. He rules
his bride with a hand of iron, slyly bestowing his evidences of love when her eyes are turned away. He makes one love Petruchio who, if played by some other actor, might be hated for his ravings. And then, in the last act, when his bride's temper has been broken, he greets her with love of the fissh-and-blood variety.

Miss Marlowe makes an ideal Katharine, beautiful, port and self-willed.
Nature has given her the beauty that is required, and, although it seems hard for her to make believe she has such a feroclous temper, she does it well.

he comes into realization that her hus-and is the master, and that it is her usy to submit—even so far as to call he sun the moon in broad daylight— the Marlowe plays at her best. Her dvice to wives at the close of the last et, is a dramatic gem. Costumes Are Notable.

Others who add flavor to the delicious farce are J. Sayre Crawley, who plays Gremio, and gives a great deal to a decrept old beau. Petruchlo's servant, Grumio, is a comedy part delightfully pertrayed by Rowland Buckstone. Miss Helen Singer. 3s Katharine's sister, and Frederick. Lewis, as Lucentlo, are worthy of praise.

The costumes worn in "The Taming of the Shrew" are authentic and are a notable feature of the production. The scenery in the four acts and eight scenes is excellent. In the second act and the second scene of the last act, when the entire company is seen at a wedding party and at a banquet, the stage pictures are wonderful. Others who add flavor to the delicious

Two San Francisco Officers Are Lured Into Gas-Filled Club Rooms.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. Thinese gamblers lured two police of-feers to imprisonment in gas-filled chambers, leaving them to be asphyxiated. The cities remaining in the no-license column are Quincy and Waltham, while Fall River, Fitchburg, Gloucester, Haverhill, Holyoke, Marlboro, New Bedford, Northampton, Pittsfield, and Springfield went for license by practically the same majorities as in the last election.

The fight for school committeemen in Fall River furnished the most interesting contest, 10,000 women casting votes. Democrats won two of the first for examination as to her sanity.

Several physicians and lawyers who have been appealed to during the past few days by the girl to protect her from her imaginary persecutor, were in court ready to testify as to the defendant's queer actions.

Miss Rigdon, who is a good-looking woman of about twenty-four years, was gotten itno court through a ruse carired out by Assistant United States Attorney Given. She went to a doctor's office by appointment and a physician preferred the charge against her of assault.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Insiders tried hard to give the market a firm appearance at the openings.
